Art Exhibition by California Artists

759.1

Foreword

The State of California, in its participation in the Golden Gate International Exposition, is conferring a multitude of benefits on all of the people. It provides a medium for displaying and for creating a public interest in all its resources and industries and constitutes an agency of instruction and culture available to all. The State Building admittedly is one of the finest ever designed for a World's Fair. One of the important features of the building is an exhibition of the works of California artists. There is no formal gallery, but works of art are on display throughout the building, thus showing to advantageous effect the works of art in both home and business environs.

The exhibition comprises the works of contemporary California artists only, and they were selected by State-wide juries. It is varied and represents well the numerous artists working in all parts of California.

This activity is an invaluable contribution to the cultural life of our citizens. It is important that we not only build California as a State great in population, commerce, and industry, but also great in opportunities for the more abundant and beneficial enjoyment of life.

The California Commission takes pride in rendering this public service.
